

Dress safe and sensibly and be aware that jewelry, loose clothing and long hair can put you at risk when operating or working near equipment in an office and as well as a plant.

Tone: Actuality

Key Training Points:

- Any piece of equipment with moving parts should be viewed as a potential danger.
- Don't assume that accidents only happen to other people. Job familiarity makes people overlook common threats.
- If your position requires you to wear a hair net, cap or to keep your hair tied back, your employer has both your welfare and legal responsibilities for that rule.
- The same applies for special shoes, boots, goggles or other protective clothing and material required on the job.
