

Name: _____

Test Questions:

Date: _____

1. Who should do Job Hazard Analysis?
 - A) Only management
 - B) Only supervisory personnel, like foremen
 - C) Only engineers
 - D) Anybody

 2. If you're doing job hazard analysis with another employee you should point out that:
 - A) Their job is on the line
 - B) You're studying the job itself, not the employee's job performance
 - C) Any criticism of current procedures will be taken as a criticism of management
 - D) The cost of any improvements will be taken out of their paychecks
 - E) All of the above

 3. Which of the following is not one of the three steps for Job Hazard Analysis?
 - A) Break down the steps
 - B) Identify hazards
 - C) Eliminate hazards
 - D) Assign blame

 4. While you're identifying hazards you should ask a lot of questions, including:
 - A) How could somebody get hurt here
 - B) Is all the right protective equipment being used
 - C) If something goes wrong, are workers in harm's way
 - D) Is the work itself creating hazards
 - E) All of the above

 5. When implementing accident prevention measures you should:
 - A) Notify your supervisor if appropriate
 - B) Be very specific in your safety recommendations
 - C) Take action without delay
 - D) Make certain everyone involved is properly trained in the new procedures
 - E) All of the above
-