SUPERVISING PLANNER

DEFINITION

Under direction, supervises activities of staff in the preparation of plans, policy proposals, zoning code enforcement and items for public hearings.

SUPERVISION RECEIVED/EXERCISED

This classification receives supervision from the Division Manager. This class exercises supervision over assigned staff.

DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS

Supervising Planner is the first-line supervisory class in the professional planning series of the Development and Resource Management Department. Development and Resource Management is responsible for coordinating the preparation of final project reports of survey and planning activities, including engineering design review, planning analysis and proposals. Incumbents assess needs and prepare and administer work schedules for planning projects and zoning code enforcement. This class differs from Planner III in that incumbents of the latter provide lead direction within a project team.
